Research Interests

Effectiveness of using ICT tools to promote teaching and learning in higher education.

With the advancement of technology in the modern world, ICT has become an integral part of teaching and learning. Use of ICT has great effectiveness for both teachers and students. ICT should have the capability of providing dynamic and proactive teaching-learning environment. So teachers should be well trained and aware about ICT, this will lead to higher thinking skills and provide creative options to the students to express their understanding and better prepared to deal with ongoing technology changes in education. So in order to make aware about the importance of ICT, study should be undertaken for the effectiveness of using ICT tools to promote teaching and learning.
